COMPETENCY BASED MEDICAL EDUCATION: THE SOLUTION TO WORKFORCE SHORTAGES?

Dr Jason Frank MD, MA (Ed) FRCPC

Associate Director
Office of Education, The Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada
Director of Education
Department of Emergency Medicine,
University of Ottawa, Canada

Tuesday, 9 February 2010, 5-6pm
The Finkel Lecture Theatre,
The John Curtin School of Medical Research, Building 131, Garran Rd

In this lecture Dr Jason Frank will share his experience in implementing competency based medical education (CMBE), including program design, procedures to support curriculum roll-out, change management, standard setting and the politics inherent in making such radical educational change.

Dr Frank is the Associate Director of the Office of Education, The Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada, and the Director of Education in the Department of Emergency Medicine, University of Ottawa. He is also an Associate Member of the Department of Graduate Studies, Ontario Institute for Studies in Education. He obtained his MD from the University of Ottawa Faculty of Medicine, and his FRCPC in Emergency Medicine at the University of Toronto. He has a Masters of Education from the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education. He has published and presented widely in medical education, where his research interests include: faculty development, program evaluation, competency-based education, and curriculum development. He is known for his work with the Royal College on the CanMEDS Project since 1994, and as an award-winning teacher. He was the 2005 EM Teacher of the Year in Canada, an honour awarded by the Canadian Association for Emergency Physicians (CAEP), and the 2007 young educator's award winner from the Canadian Association for Medical Education.

In July 2009, with Dr Linda Snell MD MHPE FRCPC FACP, he convened an international summit on CBME in Ottawa which aimed to arrive at agreed definitions and understandings of CBME. He will present and discuss some of the outcomes from this summit.

This lecture is free and open to the public. Refreshments will follow the lecture. RSVP by 5 February 2010: will.wright@anu.edu.au
